DAILY BRIEF

*South Vietnam: General Khanh now seems to be acting somewhat more positively in an effort to stabilize the situation.

Khanh returned to Saigon this morning. [General Khiem, who with Khanh and General Minh serves on the ruling military triumvirate, told an American Embassy officer on 2 September that Khanh had conferred with the top military leadership the day before and had agreed to return to work as premier. Khiem said that Khanh, in effect, had already taken up these duties.]

[Khiem says he plans to suggest to Minh that they publicly announce dissolution of the triumvirate and proclaim their support of Khanh as premier and head of government.]

NOTES

British Guiana: [The security appears to be deteriorating again. In the past week there have been numerous incidents of violence, including seven cases of arson and 15 shootings, resulting in 11 deaths. In response, British troops on 29 August rounded up more than 200 suspects and detained 30 of them on charges of terrorist activity.]

25X1

South Korea: [Moves now being made by President Pak Chong-hui to control the South Korean press may spark another round of political conflict. The press has long been a thorn in the side of Korean governments, and Pak believes student demonstrations last spring were aggravated by press sensationalism. The resignation yesterday of the minister of information indicates opposition even within the administration to Pak's program.]
